Appointments of Mayor Wilson Win Approval

Hope's new mayor, John L. Wilson, Jr., presided over his first council meeting last night and secured approval of two appointments and four recommendations for city department heads.

Mr. Wilson was sworn in earlier by Municipal Judge W. K. Lemley and Aldermen H. C. Murphy, Jesse Brown, Howard Byers, C. W. Tappley and Treasurer Charles Reynolds were sworn in by the city clerk.

Chief of Police Clarence Baker will continue to head the department at least temporarily and A. S. Willis will remain as fire chief.

Recommendations approved were Water and Light Plant superintendent, Clyde Zinn Street Commissioner, Fred Russell, replacing R. N. Mouser; City Health Officer, Dr. Herbert Rogers and Health Director, Dr. Judd Martindale.

Fireman Named
A list of firemen submitted by Chief A. S. Willis were approved as follows:

First assistant fire chief, Ray Yocum; 2nd asst. chief Charles W. McCorkle; Rufus Rothwell and Arthur Bright, drivers and pump operators; Bill Porter, Jewel May and J. L. Sutton, drivers and laddermen.

Volunteer firemen: J. W. Cunningham, Leo Compton, Orville Steadman, Clarence Knighton, Waymond Taylor, J. D. Turnage, Carol Yocum, Calvin Hare.

C. O. Thomas will continue his duties as city engineer.

Commission Considered
In other action the mayor appointed a committee to study plans and advise the council on whether to set up a Municipal Water and Light Plant Commission.

The Board of Public Affairs, Roy Anderson, A. H. Washburn and Syd McMath, will serve as part of the committee which includes:

Ernest O'Neal, chairman; George W. Robinson, Fred Ellis, Robert LaGrone, Carter Johnson.

In other action concerning the local plant representatives of three engine firms were asked to submit their proposals in letter form.

Thomas S. Stubbs, represented by Talbot Field, Jr., again asked the council to approve his application to establish another taxi-cab service in Hope. All requirements regarding the application had been met but final council action was passed until January 15.

Biorsoth to Rebuild
A. W. Biorsoth, local rancher, asked that water and electrical service be extended to his home and two tenant houses which he intends to build in the southwestern proving ground industrial area. The matter was turned over to the water and light committee.

Mr. Biorsoth, who this month will complete a deal to sell his home and ranch near the Exportment Station, now is negotiating to buy several hundred acres of land in the SPG where he intends to rebuild.

Ina Ray Hutton Involved in Wreck
Los Angeles Jan. 2 (AP) — Blonde Ina Ray Hutton, the band leader, escaped unhurt in a two-car collision that left one woman dead yesterday near International Airport.

Police said the collision was between Miss Hutton's auto and one driven by Henry Biggs, 26. A passenger in the Biggs car, Betty Blackmon, 34, was killed. Miss Hutton, who gave her age as 32, was not held.

Traffic Starts Year Off Right
Little Rock, Jan. 2 (AP) — The first day of 1932 apparently was a safe one on Arkansas highways.

As the day ended at midnight, state police had not received a traffic fatality report.

During the past year, 428 persons died in Arkansas traffic accidents. That toll was second only to the 503 of 1941.

EXTENDED FORECAST
Extended forecast for the period Jan. 1-15.

Arkansas, Eastern Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and North-west Florida: emperors will average from 4-6 degrees below normal northwest to 4-6 degrees above normal southeast. Normal minimum 26-36 North and 37-45 South. Normal maximum 50-55 North and 54-64 South. Cold except extreme southeast Wednesday and Thursday. Warmer Saturday. Colder Arkansas Sunday. Precipitation heavy. Showers in southeast Wednesday. Showers again Sunday and in Arkansas Saturday.

Vicious Community
Prairie dogs frequently share their burrows with owls, weasels, and rattlesnakes. But this does not indicate a happy family arrangement for the visitor often at the young prairie dogs and although the prairie dogs eat only grass they destroy the young owls and sometimes bury the rattlesnakes alive.

W. H. Hilton, 82, Dies at His Home in Fulton
W. H. Hilton, aged 82, died Tuesday night at his home in Fulton. He had lived in Hempstead county for 79 years.

He is survived by his wife, five sons, Hiram, Jim, Lee, Benson and Everett Hilton, all of Fulton.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the Fulton Union Church by the Rev. Marion Hawthorne. Burial will be in Fulton Cemetery.

104TH BIRTHDAY
Bexhill, England, Jan. 2 (AP) — Miss Lucy Wilson, who was bombed out of her home three times in World War II, was 104 years old today.

AWAIT WORD — Mr. and Mrs. Leo Elam, with their 12-year-old son Sidney, sit by the radio at their home in Kingsland, Ark., to catch every broadcast telling the story of the Hungarian plane crash. The Elams were released by the U. S. Government. (NEA Telephone)

Seek Cause of Crash in Which 26 Died

Little Valley, N. Y., Jan. 2 (AP) — The chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board said the crash of a C-46 airplane that claimed 26 lives near Hope, Ark., does not appear to have been caused by either mechanical or structural failure of the airplane.

Donald W. Nyrop and five aides flew in from Washington and sifted through the scattered remains of the non-scheduled airliner yesterday.

The party was led through 2 1/2 miles of rugged country to the ridge in the Allegheny Mountain foothills where the airliner crashed Saturday night.

The ripped wreckage of the plane, from which 14 persons escaped and huddled around a makeshift parachute shelter until help came Monday afternoon, was shrouded in fog as the investigators went to work.

The twin-engine plane of Continental Charters Inc., Miami, was the object of widespread searches in northwest Pennsylvania and southwest New York for two days.

Bitter Cold Moves Into Arkansas
By The Associated Press

Sub-freezing temperatures and rain moved into Arkansas on New Year's night, ending a post-Christmas period of warm, spring like weather.

The lowest mercury reading recorded in the state by the U. S. Weather Bureau was 30 degrees at Fayetteville in the northwest. Flip-pin, Walnut Ridge and Gilbert all reported a low of 31.

The Weather Bureau in Little Rock said the mercury would continue its downward trend through Thursday, spurred on by freezing rains throughout the state Wednesday afternoon and night.

A low of 16 degrees was forecast for extreme northwest sections of the state Wednesday night, with a minimum of 23 for the central section and 30 for the extreme south-east portion.

Rainfall covered the state. Walnut Ridge reported the largest amount of precipitation — 2.03 inches by 7 a. m. Wednesday. Other points reporting excessive rainfall included Batesville 1.80 inches; Camden 1.67 and Morrilton 1.15.

U. S. Tightens on Unemployment Fraud
Washington, Jan. 2 (AP) — The government is putting the squeeze on unemployment insurance fraud.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the Bureau of Employment Security, reported yesterday a sharp drop in the detected number of overpayments due to willful misrepresentation.

The period covered was the July-September quarter, as compared with the previous three months in 1931.

"A substantial reduction also was achieved in the amount overpaid due to fraud," Goodwin said.

"Overpayments due to willful misrepresentation and fraud during the July-September quarter totaled $725,602 as contrasted with $1,151,234 during the quarter ending June 30."

Goodwin said that, of 1,236 cases of persons taken to court on charges of fraudulently obtaining unemployment insurance pay, 1,250 convictions were obtained.

Because of low unemployment, the report said, the jobless insurance fund is at a record high of about $7,800,000,000.

Sea Captain Clings to Damaged Ship

London, Jan. 2 (AP) — Capt. Kurt Carlsen clung bravely and alone today to the storm-racked American freighter Flying Enterprise, 300 miles out in the Atlantic, with hopes of saving the hull and cargo.

The 10 passengers and 41 of the crew were believed to have been rescued after jumping into the sea last Friday. One crewman died.

The worst Atlantic storm in 50 years split the ship's plates and set her crazily atilt in a buffeting that began Christmas night and got worse until the order to abandon ship came three days later.

Survivors told harrowing stories of their escape from the sea. Carlsen calmly directed the jumping overboard but elected to stay with his ship.

Help was on the way today and old "seadogs" said he had a sporting chance of being towed into port, although, because of the heavy list, the operation was tricky.

The Flying Enterprise left Hamburg, Germany, for New York 10 days ago and was just out of the English Channel when the storm hit.

The storm took at least 63 lives at sea and in Western Europe and sent three good-sized ships to the bottom.

As long as the 36-year-old captain stays aboard, the ship cannot be classed as a derelict and become prey to whatever ship may throw a line aboard and tow her to safety.

The ship is owned by the Isbrandtsen Company of New York. Its vessels have figured in some incidents in recent years along the China Coast, including a Chinese Nationalist gunboat attack on the Flying Arrow while she was trying to run the blockade to Red Shanghai in January, 1930.

The U. S. Navy destroyer John W. Weeks was speeding to the Flying Enterprise to stand by with the U. S. Navy supply ship Golden Eagle, which has stood the watch over the 6,710-ton Enterprise and her intrepid captain.

The British tug Turmoil was sailing from Falmouth to try taking the crippled ship in two some-time today. Neither of the navy ships was equipped to do the job.

Capt. Carlsen, whose wife and daughters live in New York City, N. J., has sent comforting messages to them by ship's radio.

His two signals Tuesday said: "OK and in good spirits. . . conditions aboard unchanged."

There was silence after that but the U. S. Navy headquarters said "Without doubt the Enterprise is still afloat or the Eagle would have told us."

Accounting for the passengers and crew was still under way because they were landed at various ports by other ships—in Liverpool, Rotterdam and the Thames Estuary.

CASUALTIES IDENTIFIED
Washington, Jan. 2 (AP) — The Defense Department today identified 81 more battle casualties in Korea. A new list (471) reported 17 dead, 49 wounded, six missing in action, one prisoner of war and eight injured.

It also listed 14 killed who previously were reported missing.

Three Young Burglars Taken Into Custody

Three 'teen-age youths who have been eluding officers since Sunday night when they broke into two local hardware stores are now in custody of police — one here at Hope and the others in Texarkana, Texas.

The trio ransacked the home of Perry DeMaree Monday night taking some $500 worth of articles, mostly guns. Two of the group were picked up by Texas police late Tuesday and admitted the burglary of the Texarkana home and the two hardware stores here — in each instance guns were the principal articles stolen.

The third youth is 12 years old, left the others at Texarkana yesterday shortly before their arrest and hitch-hiked his way to Hope early this morning. On his arrival at home his family brought him to the police station.

He told Chief of Police Clarence Baker about the trio robbing the Hope stores and said they hid on the roof of a building while police were searching it.

He admitted they came down about 2 hours later and walked east on the Missouri Pacific Railway before turning off to the Standard Auto Company where they stole a car and drove to Texarkana by way of Lewisville. The car, a 1930 Chevrolet, was found abandoned at Texarkana Stock Yards Tuesday. It was loaded with ammunition and several guns.

They spent most of the time in the car until abandoning it. The youth also told of leaving his companions in downtown Texarkana and spending the night in and around a drive-in. "The Red Barn" During the night police searched the area about the drive-in after being tipped off that a youth had been seen in the area. Early Wednesday morning he caught a ride with an unidentified Hope man and went home.

His family said he was cold, wet and hungry — and told them he had not eaten since he left Sunday. His two brothers brought him to the police station after relieving the youth of a 22 calibre, loaded pistol which he carried in his pocket.

The other youths were picked up when they went to the home of one in Texarkana. It was first thought all three lived here but one was only visiting relatives.

Officials continued to question the youths today.

Melons Thrown in Crib Are Well Preserved
Four melons from last year's crop were displayed recently by John Gaines of McCaskill. One of the melons, brought to Hope by Gordon Prescott, was in almost perfect condition. Mr. Prescott said he helped cut another and the taste was good but a little sweet. The melons were stored in a corn crib.

Desperate U. S. Women Have Resolutions Also in Their Fight to Outdo the Men
By HAL BOYLE

New York, Jan. 2 (AP) — Do women make New Year's resolutions? It is the belief of most men that they do. This is because they themselves overhaul their lives at this season and chart a fresh course. And they figure that whatever they do likewise, because of the desperate feminine determination in America to outdo men in any field.

But that just shows any male generalization about the opposite sex is likely to be untrue.

Editor's note: My wife says your generalizations about women are particularly susceptible to error.

Anyway, to get back to the subject, I have found women strongly resist the idea of making New Year's resolutions. Or, if they do make them, they do it in utter secrecy.

I was writing down my own list of promises to myself to live better when Frances looked over my shoulder.

"What have we here, Robert?" she asked.

"New Year's resolution," I explained proudly. "I've got up to 112 and I'm only about half through."

"Half through?" she murmured. "You aren't even half started."

"She picked up my list — rather cynically, I thought — and skimmed through it, shaking her head."

"What do you mean by these first two items — that you'll give up Sazerac cocktails and quit looking at wrestling matches on television?" she demanded. "You know we don't have a television set yet and you never drank a Sazerac cocktail in your life."

"Well, I put down a couple of easy ones just to warm up with," I replied lamely. "It's always easier to give up something you don't do than something you do do."

"Why don't you swear off taking rocket trips to the moon?" Frances suggested. "Your last few flights have left me rather worried."

"Isn't that like a wife? A husband tries to mend his ways and what does he get? Help? No! Quibbles? Yes."

In an effort to get out of this conversational side-pocket, I inquired:

"All right, then, let me see your list."

"My list of what?"

"Your list of New Year's resolutions,"

Proving Ground Days Rough on Court Personnel

Yesterday's review of 1931 stories listed 127 cases handled by Hope Municipal Court in a single day as a recent record.

However, according to Court Clerk, Miss Annie Jean Walker, on April 20, 1942 Hope Municipal Court handled 146 cases — 130 city and 7 county.

Miss Walker reminded this was in the days of the Proving Ground during which time it was not uncommon to handle huge dockets each week.

Bodies of 28 Plane Victims Being Removed
Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 2 (AP) — Airmen and cowboys struggled up the icy face of a rugged central Arizona mountain today in an effort to reach the bodies of 28 military personnel killed in the crash of an air force C-47 transport plane.

Mounted on horses, the advance party of an evacuation team followed a faint cattle trail leading to the place where the big plane slammed into Arner Mountain, 65 miles northeast of Phoenix, and burned.

Guiding the group was Arnold Johnson, 50-year-old cattle ranch foreman, who yesterday went to the crash scene and found all of the plane passengers, including 19 West Point cadets, dead.

Eight air force officers and men set up a base camp about four miles from the wreckage last night. A 35-man evacuation team left Williams Air Force Base for the mountain this morning.

When the vanguard set out shortly after daybreak, they figured the temperature at the top of the 7,000 foot mountain was five degrees below zero. The plane hit about 150 feet below the crest and at the foot of a rocky bluff.

Johnson reported three to four inches of snow covered the ground around the scattered wreckage and bodies. Trees below the crash scene are loaded with snow.

"It's mighty rough country," said Johnson, who has spent most of his life in that area. "The horses will have to be led over some parts of the trail."

Wreckage of the plane that vanished in a storm Sunday was sighted yesterday afternoon by aerial searches.

Johnson's wife, Edna, saw the shattered remains of the C-47 through field glasses and informed her husband. Johnson rode immediately up the mountain to give aid to any survivors, but found only bodies of the 27 men and one woman.

Johnson said he couldn't tell how many bodies there were, but there was nothing to show that there were any survivors.

"The plane was in small pieces," Johnson reported at the ground party's base camp. "I didn't even see the engine."

Only the tail structure remained intact.

Slayer of Four Breaks Yule Parole
Little Rock, Jan. 2 (AP) — Arkansas prison authorities released Tuck Bishop, slayer of four men, for a Christmas furlough and he didn't come back.

Bishop shot down the four — and missed a fifth on a Springfield street Jan. 17, 1931, later telling officers and men and annoyed his wife and that he had to kill them to "save her honor."

He was tried for two of the deaths, convicted of first degree murder both times in Washington County Circuit Court and was given concurrent life sentences. Two similar charges against him are pending.

After a state police pickup order went out on Bishop yesterday, State Parole Director W. P. Ball said this was the first Christmas furlough he had been given since he entered the penitentiary in mid-1931. Ball also said Bishop was the only one of 130 "trustworthy" convicts furloughed this Christmas who didn't come back on time.

The furloughs are a long time custom at the penitentiary. They are granted by the State Parole Board upon the recommendation of the penitentiary superintendent.

Bishop, now 51, is six feet one inch tall, weighs 172 pounds and has brown eyes, medium complexion and light brown hair, turning gray. He was wounded in World War One, wears a steel brace on one leg and walks with a noticeable limp.

Killed immediately when Bishop unleashed his barrage of .45 caliber automatic slugs nine years ago were Paul Phillips, a Washington County farmer, and Lyle Carter, Springfield service station employee, both about 30. It was for their deaths that Bishop was convicted.

Lyle Graham, 21, a Lowell farmer, and Arnold Neil, 20, also were shot and died the following day.

Before each of Bishop's trials he was pronounced sane by state hospital authorities. Between trials, he was held in a Fort Smith jail and, while there, he made an unsuccessful suicide attempt by slashing his wrists with a razor blade.

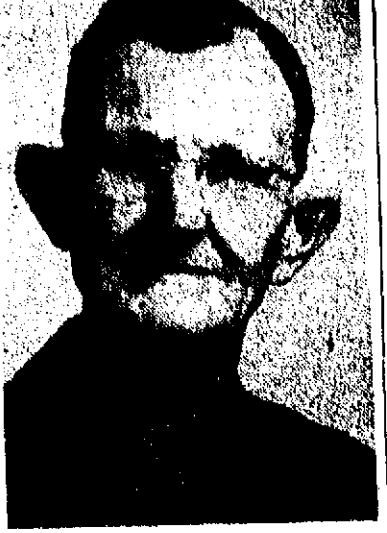

Mrs. Bishop was charged as an accessory to murder. However, the charges were dropped and she announced she was going to Denver, Colo., to live.

The women were arrested on charges of open and notorious cohabitation brought by Bishop's ex-wife, A. Davis of the Moss Bluff, Ark., church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. He also charged of bigamy against Bishop, "husband," who he identified as George Merle Dutton.

The women, all of whom gave their last name as Dutton, were listed by the police as: Helen, Anna, 33; Sarah, 43; and Arlene, who gave their addresses as 1000 E. Van Buren St., Phoenix, and Lura, 43, Chandler, Ariz.

Bishop Davis said Dutton had children by two of the women, which two and how many he did not say. Bishop Davis said Dutton has another "wife" in Salt Lake City and an eighth in Rock Springs, Wyo.

He said Dutton and the other women were excommunicated from the church about 12 years ago. Dutton's excommunication was by Murray, Utah, in 1920 for polygamy.

M. C. Bruce

M. C. Bruce, of the mechanical and motive power department of the Louisiana and Arkansas Railway Company for 46 years, is starting his first year of retirement.

Mr. Bruce started work for the railroad as car repairer on March 1, 1906, at Stamps. In 1908 he was made car inspection and lead inspector in 1912 and to M. P. & M. foreman at Hope in 1935.

He was born 68 years ago at Magnolia and raised a large family, 12 boys and two girls, including three sets of twins, all of whom are living.

As a hobby Mr. Bruce has opened a small machine repair shop at 1522 S. Main and few can compete with his skill in precision work. He would like for his friends to drop in and visit with him.

Western Half of U. S. Hit by Cold, Snow
By The Associated Press

Snow, sleet and cold hit wide areas of the western half of the country today but it was more summer-like weather in the South, east and along the Gulf Coast.

Road crews opened snow blocked highways in the mountain regions of Utah, Colorado, Nevada, northern California, freezing showers of stranded motorists, and skiers. Cold weather continued in the area but no more snow was predicted or today. Haviest snow falls in years hit parts of Utah, and temperatures yesterday tumbled to as low as 42 below in some areas.

The cold weather extended into the Midwest and headed eastward. It was 22 below zero early today in Bemidji, Minn. No immediate warming was in prospect for the Midwest.

Freezing sleet and rain, pelted areas from the Texas Panhandle northeastward across northern Oklahoma, southeastern Kansas and the south and central parts of Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

Six Wives of Mormon Are Jailed
Mesq, Ariz., Jan. 2 (AP) — Preliminary hearing for six women who claim to be the wives of a Mormon cultist will be held today before Justice of the Peace Jack Hunsaker here.

They were arrested yesterday and spent the night in jail pending their hearing. Their husband, member of the cult that broke with the Latter Day Saints Mormon Church over the question of polygamy, is being sought.

The women were arrested on charges of open and notorious cohabitation brought by Bishop's ex-wife, A. Davis of the Moss Bluff, Ark., church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. He also charged of bigamy against Bishop, "husband," who he identified as George Merle Dutton.

World Settles Down to Business

By the Associated Press

The world returned to work today to start the business of a new year which has inherited the trials, hopes and disappointments of the old.

And 1952, a Leap Year, will have an extra day before another holiday season with its rush of peace and goodwill rolls around again.

Celebrations and festivities, and violence and death, gave the new year a bitter and sweet welcome.

There were the big celebrations in New York, Chicago, Paris and London at the stroke of the new year. There also were taverns and nightclubs, and the city of New York, the world's greatest, and paid its respects to infant 1952.

In the United States, the annual college football "bowl" games brought thousands to stadiums throughout the country.

At Pasadena, Calif., one of the famed Rose Bowl games, an estimated 1,250,000 persons turned out for the Tournament of Roses procession. Pretty girls rode 63 floats decorated with nine million flowers.

Fifteen thousand men and boys in brightly-plumed costumes treat the annual Mummers parade. Rain kept down the crowd, but the gay Mummers braved all eight hours of the parade.

But America also had its death and violence. Hundreds died in automobile accidents over the holiday days. A series of plane crashes took the lives of dozens more.

There also was an unusual number of shootings, stranglings and

GOP Mayor to 'Serve All'

Little Rock, Jan. 2 (AP)—Frank C. Bennett, Little Rock's first Republican mayor since 1891, said he'll serve "all the people" and "not just Democrats or Republicans."

The 36-year-old Bennett made the promise after taking sworn into office yesterday.

He said the two chief problems facing his administration were a need for money to operate the city and expand its services and the organization of the police and fire departments.

He had a record of 10 years as a city manager for the city of Little Rock.

George H. Mason, a spokesman, said yesterday he had received an anonymous greeting card with $22 tucked inside and a note saying: "Please accept this money for a debt owed Mr. Mason when he was assistant postmaster."

Mason said the reference was to his father, George H. Mason, who died 20 years ago.

Some conversion belts with speeds of 20 miles an hour are used in moving coal in mining operations.

Stallions on New Year's Day.

The holiday signaled the start of a new year for many Americans. The old family penny postcard went up to two cents.

In New York, parking fines were increased from a straight $4 to $10 for bad parking and to $15 for double parking.

Elsewhere in the world, on both sides of the Iron Curtain, the new year received welcomes of both youth and hopeful anticipation.

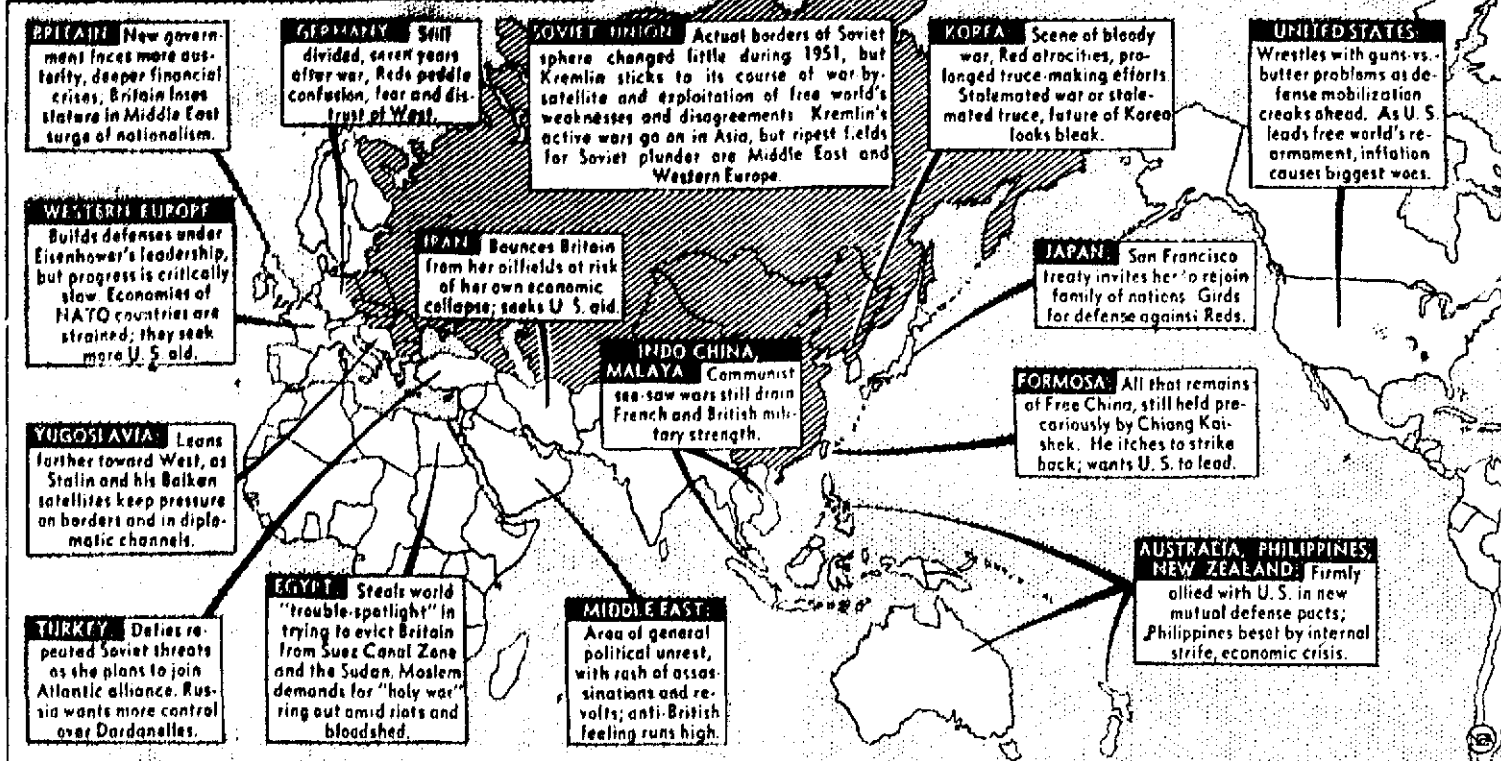

Soldiers in Korea remained at their posts as they watched the progress of prolonged fighting.

Red China had a big New Year's celebration in Peking. Communist Chairman Mao Tse Tung called for "still greater victories" in 1952.

A slight earthquake started the new year in Santiago, Chile.

In the Suez Canal zone, the day was marked by a wild three-hour gun battle between Egyptians and British troops.

Noted Lyricist Dies at 40

London, N. J., Jan. 2 (AP)—Edward Seiler, noted Tin Pan Alley lyricist, died of a heart attack yesterday as he played with two nephews at his home here. He was 40.

During his career, Seiler wrote the lyrics to such hit tunes as "I Don't Want to Set This World on Fire," "When the Light Goes on Again," and "Till Then."

A native of Austria, the lyricist came to this country as a child. He collapsed and died while playing basketball with his nephews in the yard of his home.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Barbara Farber Seiler, two daughters, Dana, 9, and Michael, 7, and two brothers.

Acheson's Statement Old Stuff

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 2 (AP)—When Secretary of State Acheson finished explaining our China policy to a senate committee during the MacArthur hearings last spring, Senator Wiley of Wisconsin had a comment.

Wiley, who succeeded the late Senator Vandenberg as ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations committee, has one of the key congressional jobs on foreign affairs. The white-haired Wiley said:

"Mr. Secretary, I think that you should be complimented on a pretty clear statement as to the facts that heretofore were not brought to our attention in relation to this Chinese situation."

McGeorge Bundy, editor of a book on Acheson published Monday, "The Pattern of Responsibility," recalls this incident and says during in a footnote:

"Senator Wiley's comment is somewhat surprising, almost all of Acheson's statement was a restatement of facts published two years before in the white paper on China."

That was a 1,054 page book produced by the State Department to explain the history and failure of our dealings with the Chinese. At once it became the center of hot congressional argument.

If a man in Wiley's position didn't read this vital document — he was next to Vandenberg at the time — or forgot what he read, the average person can be excused if he's confused or forgetful about the details of our foreign dealings. We live in the center of an international whirlwind where our wartime allies have become our peacetime enemies and our wartime enemies our peacetime allies.

Too many things happen too fast over too long a period for the average man to keep a clear, detailed and reasoned opinion on the major events which develop over months and years.

Bundy's book probably won't help those whose minds already have been made up on Acheson, such as his 100 per cent supporters, or those who go along with Senator McCarthy's attack on the secretary Bundy, a lifelong Republican whose brother married Acheson's daughter, has small patience with McCarthy, who, like Wiley, is a Wisconsin Republican.

But the book should benefit anyone who wants to form an opinion based on more information than has been available to him in one place before. This book is almost entirely made up of Acheson's public statements and testimony on our foreign policy and why it became a policy. Bundy, as editor and narrator, provides the bridges between the various statements and the events which brought them forth.

Not all that glitters in the book is pure Acheson. He has had expert staff help on his state ments, the kind of help a man in his job needs and must get at thought the final product is his responsibility.

For instance, the speech he made at Berkeley, Calif., March 16, 1950, remains, I think, the most intelligent and intelligible explanation of why Soviet communism is a threat which we must oppose. It impressed me by its exactness so much at the time that I asked at the State Department about it and found Acheson's staff had begun work on it six months before he delivered it.

Nor is Bundy's book the complete story of our foreign policy, by any means, as Bundy himself points out. The President, not much involved in this book, has the final say on our foreign policy. History may show his was the major hand in shaping it. Nor will we know for a long time some of that information is still in the secret files.

Bundy says he tried to present a fair picture of the secretary in this book. Generally he is sympathetic to Acheson, although in some places critical. It is not a book that can be tossed off in one sit-

Ex-U. S. Steel Official Dies

New York, Jan. 2 (AP)—William A. Irvin, president of the United States Steel Corp. from 1932 to 1937, died yesterday after a long illness. He was 73.

Irvin became an outstanding figure during more than half a century in the steel industry. He started at the bottom in a Pennsylvania steel plant in 1894.

His direction of the nation's biggest steel corporation came during the worst depression in American history. Under his leadership, U.S. Steel loaned 9 million dollars to depression-stricken employees without security. At the time, the company was operating at a loss.

Irvin, a native of Indiana, Pa., retired as vice chairman of the U.S. Steel board trustees in 1939. But he continued as a board member and finance chairman of the board.

During World War I, Irvin was chairman of President Roosevelt's War Production Fund to Conserve Manpower. He also was head of the National Safety Council.

Irvin died at Harkness Pavilion, Presbyterian Hospital of New York.

Irvin required concentrated reading. "If you're looking for a shorter explanation of our foreign policy, get a recently published book by John Fischer, 'Master Plan: USA.' Fischer knows his way around and has some criticism to offer."

Youth Admits Driving Car That Killed 2

Detroit, Jan. 2 (AP)—Police said today a 20-year-old youth surrendered last night and said his car struck 2 pretty Pontiac girls who were left dying in a shock on New Year's Eve.

Held for questioning was Anthony Redmond, 20, of suburban Royal Oak. When he walked into the Royal Oak police station shortly before midnight he was accompanied by a 17-year-old youth, two 15-year-old girls who were with him on New Year's Eve, and the father of one of the girls.

Held as a witness was Doran Cushing, the other youth. The girls were released to their parents. Their names were not disclosed.

The two victims, Barbara Holloway, 17, and Jessie Anaston, 15, were struck as they walked along Woodward avenue after they had left a party shortly before.

Police quoted Redmond as saying he was driving north on Woodward in a heavy fog, "watching the time because of the New Year coming in."

"It was exactly midnight — We were saying 'Happy New Year' to each other — when I caught a glimpse of a girl's coat and fell a bump."

He said he got out and saw one of the girls lying in the snow. He

Acheson Says Reds to Strike Elsewhere

New York, Dec. 31 (AP)—Any peace in Korea may be followed by some new "Communist treachery," there, Secretary of State Acheson says, or be offset by a major Red aggression in Southeast Asia or other border area.

That prospect was held out by the Secretary last night in a year-end foreign policy summary and new year forecast in which he told the nation that this is no time "to let down at all in vigilance, purpose and effort."

"It is hard to say that any one year is more critical than another," Acheson told a meeting of Jewish War Veterans, "but it seems to me certain that we will have it in our power in 1952 to take action, or to withhold action, which will have a decisive effect upon the cause of peace."

The great decisions to be made in the defense of Western Europe, Acheson said, concern a new Atlantic Alliance mobilization schedule, the making of a peace contract said another car came along and he stopped it, telling the driver to call police.

"I had been in trouble with the police before, and I knew I was in a jam," officers quoted Redmond as saying. "We had a case of beer with us and two 15-year-old girls in the car."

"I told Cushing to grab the beer and throw it in the field."

Redmond said the other driver went to telephone police, adding: "We were so scared we drove away."

Two college youths, Samuel Arrell, a junior at Clemson college in South Carolina, and Gerald Sieff, a Wayne university junior, had led police to the scene of the tragedy, telling officers of the youth who had stopped there.

The students, both 21, live in suburban Ferndale.

Barbara was dead when police arrived. Jessie was conscious but unable to speak. She died four hours later.

Autopsies showed the two teenagers died of head injuries which caused fatal brain hemorrhages. Bodies of both showed lacerations and bruises.

with West Germany, and the organization of Western Europe forces to include German units, predicted action on all these in first months of 1952.

In addition, he listed outside European area five danger spots beginning with Korea and requiring constant "vigilance" in the year.

The critical other points he were Indochina, Burma, Egypt, Iran.

He gave this summary: 1. Korea—even if an armistice is signed, he said, "we shall remain on guard against a new wave of Communist treachery."

Furthermore there will remain economic task of rebuilding land and the political task of turning the country "on a basis provides a decent chance for Koreans to live as free men."

2. Indochina — During 1951 Communist threat in Indochina "has been contained" by the efforts of the French Army and anti-Communist native people. American aid, however, there "dangerous signs" of further Communist aggression there.

3. Burma—Here, too, there signs of further trouble from aggression, requiring the United States to be on guard.

4. Egypt—The crisis over the fence of the Suez Canal brought by differences between Egypt, Britain over the presence of British troops along the waterway, states one of two danger spots in the Middle East.

5. Iran—This is the other Middle East danger spot and like the Egyptian crisis, in Acheson's view "dangerous opportunities for provocation by the Kremlin."

The sugar-producing island Antigua in the Caribbean Sea year-round temperatures ran from 70 to 82 degrees.

Miss Penny Ann Franks

Honored on 7th Birthday

Miss Penny Ann Franks was honored with a party on her 7th birthday Tuesday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Franks.

Favors of party hats, balloons, and bubble gum were given to the guests.

Miss Evelyn Bryant assisted in directing the party after which the birthday cake triumphed in red and white and ice cream were served to about twenty-five children.

Miss Patsy McPherson
James R. Gray Wed

Miss Patsy Jane McPherson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brents B. McPherson, became the bride of James Ransom Gray, son of Mrs. Kathleen Gray of Texarkana, in a ceremony performed in the First Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon, December 30, at 4 o'clock.

Pedestal baskets of pink double stock and pink carnations interspersed with huckleberry, placed against a background of palms, decorated the place of ceremony. The scene was illuminated by a myriad of tall pink tapers. Pink carnations and huckleberry formed the central arrangement before the altar.

The Reverend Virgil D. Keeley, pastor, officiated at the double ring service. Prior to the entrance of the bride party, Luther Holman, organist, and Homer Jones, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music. Mr. Jones sang "O Promise Me" and "Because." The traditional wedding marches were used. During the exchange of vows, soft strains of "Claire de Lune" were heard.

Billy Joe Horn of Hot Springs and Manley Baird of Texarkana lighted the candles. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ankle length magnolia embroidered satin gown designed with a fitted bodice which featured tiny self-covered buttons in front, and a very full skirt. The portrait neckline was bordered with medallions of rhinestones centered with seed pearls. Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a satin cloche encrusted with seed pearls. She wore white kid gloves and broad satin slippers. Her bouquet was of bouvardia and bride's roses from which fell white satin ribbons. Her jewelry was a strand of heirloom pearls.

Mrs. Robert C. Ellen, Jr. of Texarkana was her bridesmaid, wearing a black tulle dress, fashioned with a portrait neckline, fitted bodice, and flared skirt. She wore matching tulle gauntlets and a head-dress of ice blue nylon net tied with matching tulle ribbon. She carried a colonial bouquet of pinocchio roses tied with champagne satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. George Fraser of Austin, Texas; Mrs. Jack Bell of Arkadelphia; Mrs. Don Westbrook of Texarkana; and Mrs. Ben Core of Paris. They wore ankle length dresses of champagne moire tulle. Miss Nayann Elliot of Texarkana, who was her cousin's junior bridesmaid, wore an ice blue moire tulle frock. Their dresses were made on lines identical to that worn by the honor attendant. They wore matching gauntlets and nylon net gloves, and carried colonial bouquets of pinocchio roses. The bridesmaids' flowers were tied with ice blue satin ribbon, and the junior bridesmaids with champagne satin ribbon.

Harold Gray of Texarkana served his brother as best man. Ushers were Jack Gleason, Calvin Stephens, William Maledon, Darrell May, all of Texarkana, Vernon Crawley of Nashville, and Martin Pool, Jr.

The bride's mother wore a Paradise blue tulle afternoon dress with rhinestone trim and a navy blue straw hat. Her accessories were navy blue and white. Pinned at her shoulder was a gardenia corsage.

The bridegroom's mother chose a black gabardine suit and mauve pink hat with floral trim. Her accessories were mauve pink, and her corsage was of vanda orchids.

Mrs. Don Smith, maternal grandmother of the bride, was attired in a Delphi blue crepe dress with a lace jacket. Her corsage was of white feathered carnations.

Mrs. Ann Little of Texarkana, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, wore an orchid wool crepe suit and a pink feathered carnation corsage.

A reception in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Don Smith, maternal grandparents of the bride, immediately followed the ceremony.

Mrs. John Vesey greeted the guests at the door and introduced them to the receiving line, which included the bride couple, their parents, and the bride's attendants.

Arrangements of white roses, pink double stock, pink carnations, pink chrysanthemums, and various blossoms were placed at points of interest throughout the home. Mrs. S. E. McPherson, Mrs. R. E. Jackson, and Mrs. Lawrence Martin extended courtesies in the reception rooms. Mrs. Willis Smith of Eastland, Texas, aunt of the bride, invited the guests into the dining room.

Overlaid with a cloth of Normandy lace, the bride's table held as its centerpiece pink roses in a silver bowl, flanked by glowing pink tapers in silver candle holders. Each taper was adorned with a single pink rose and fern tied with pink satin ribbon.

The three-tiered wedding cake was embossed with pink and blue floral design and topped with a pair of love birds. Mrs. Roy Anderson served the cake. Mrs. C. B. Cox of Hot Springs served the punch.

Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. James Tucker of Benton, Mrs. John Bissell of Ft. Benning, Georgia, Mrs. John McGee, Mrs. Billy Joe Horn of Hot Springs, Mrs. Edy Sutton of Fayetteville, Miss Mary Esther Edmiston, Miss Joseph Williams, Mrs. Bess Evans, Mrs. A. Nash, and Mrs. J. W. Franks.

Mrs. Harold Gray of Texarkana presided over the bride's book. Mrs. Frank Horn, Mrs. Fay James, and Mrs. Martin Pool were in charge of the gift rooms. Each member of the houseparty wore a gardenia corsage.

Following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip. For travel the bride chose a gray suit with black velvet trim, with which she wore a white crepe blouse with tangerine and black accents. Her tangerine hat was trimmed in narrow black braid. Pinned at the shoulder was a gardenia corsage. The couple will be at home in Texarkana, where they are members of the faculty of the Texarkana schools.

Among the out-of-town guests for the Gray-McPherson wedding in addition to those already mentioned were: Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clark, Mrs. Jan Williams, Mrs. Garvin Garrett, Mrs. Delphus Whitten of Arkadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Will Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Will Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Graham, Mrs. Naisie Epperson of Garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shackelford, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shackelford, Robert C. Ellen, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lacey Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Locke, Mrs. Arch Little, Mrs. Lawrence Wright of Texarkana; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Simmons, Shreveport, La.; Mr. and Mrs. George Spier, New Orleans, La.; Willis Garrett, Smith, Eastland, Texas; James Tucker, Benton; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. John Kirby, Minden, La.; Miss Willie Lawson, Little Rock; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Magnus, Mrs. Bob Magnus, Emmet; Mrs. Fielding Hadleston, Houston; George Fraser, Austin, Texas; Ben Core, Paris; Jack Bell, Arkadelphia; and Miss Lou Nell Cox of Hot Springs.

Clubs

Baker

The Baker Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Gray Browning Friday evening, December 31, for their annual Christmas Party.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Wier Owens. Mrs. Browning opened the meeting with a scripture reading from Luke 2, followed by all repeating the Lord's Prayer. Roll call was answered by each member telling "How I can make someone happy this Christmas." The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. T. B. Fenwick, and approved.

Everyone enjoyed the exchange of gifts from under a beautifully lighted tree followed by the hostess serving refreshments.

Among those present was one new member, Mrs. Clint Crawford; Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood, Home Demonstration Agent; and five guests - Mrs. Charlie Roberts, Mrs. Ross Roberts, Mrs. Theo Burns, Miss Iris Nell Roberts, and Miss Daphne Crawford.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Orville Steadman on January 11, 1932.

Green Luster

The families of the Green Luster Home Demonstration Club met for their annual Christmas Party in the recreational building at the Experiment Station Thursday night, December 20, 1931.

The room was decorated for the occasion with a Christmas tree and other greenery. The large dining table and piano were covered with large bowls of mandarin berries and foliage.

Games were played by all followed by the group singing Christmas carols led by Mrs. M. B. Gentry with Mrs. Rose Luck at the piano.

A Christmas supper was enjoyed by the thirty-seven who were present. Among those present were Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Blackwood and children.

Before leaving for the different homes the group gathered around and sang "God be With You Till We Meet Again" and Mrs. Fred Hunt dismissed the group with prayer.

Pastor Takes Title for Champion Liar

Burlington, Wis., Dec. 31 (AP) — Flabbergasted judges of the Burlington Liars' club today pinned the title of the world's champion liar on a member of the clergy — the Rev. Arthur R. Kirk of Biggs, Calif.

O. C. Hulet, president of the club, said the club's officers, acting as judges, came to a unanimous decision on the winner of their 1931 contest "and then almost fainted when they looked at the name signed at the bottom of the letter."

Here's what Mr. Kirk pastor of the Biggs Community church, wrote:

"A man living west of town tried to raise watermelons this summer. He had very bad luck. The soil was too rich. The watermelon vines grew so fast that they were the watermelons out, dragging them along on the ground."

"One of the boys from town went out one night to swipe a melon. He got the melon all right but the vines were growing so fast that warm night that the boy had to be taken to the hospital. Before he could break the melon off the vine he had dragged him half a mile and he was in bad shape."

Following the reception, the

A GIRL! FOR GLADYS?—Old Harvard grads throughout the country are indignant, but an actual, real live woman may get the part of Gladys in this year's production of the traditionally all-male Hasty Pudding Show at Cambridge, Mass. Shapely Roxanne, male Hasty Pudding star, is seen (on the left) trying out for the role with Larry Leonard, a legitimate Harvard Hasty Pudding-type performer from Swampscott, Mass. As old grads' complaints pour in, Roxanne will be given a chance to show if she can really swing it.

DOROTHY DIX

Disloyal Sweetheart

Dear Miss Dix: Could a girl of 19 be in love with a fellow, yet continue to go out with other men and deny her disloyalty?

I am in the Marine Reserve, which takes me away for six weeks during the summer. During the winter months I go to college and can't see this girl more than four nights a week. As I don't have much money, I can't take her out to many nice places. I know definitely that she is out with other boys on the nights when I have to stay in with home-work. She also goes out during the summer yet she persists in declaring she loves me and sees no one else. I finish school next year and would like to get married then. I love this girl very much but am afraid she won't change after marriage.

Yours A Fine Person

The fact that you cannot spend much time (although four nights a week is a good dating schedule) or money on a girl would not be a drawback to the right person. Your letter indicates a boy of fine qualities, for whom any girl would be glad to wait — if she loved him. There, of course, is the crux of your difficulty. Your sweetheart certainly cannot love you, Teddy, else she would never be so faithless. You are correct in your assumption that she would not improve with marriage.

Painful as it may seem at the moment, the best advice I can give you is to break with this girl as soon as possible. You deserve much better treatment and I hope you soon find a more worthy young lady.

Dear Miss Dix: Five weeks ago we moved into a new neighborhood not far from a relative. This lady is a very fine person, but she comes calling before breakfast and stays a good part of the day. She includes me in all her plans, many of which are almost impossible for me to carry out. My husband has told her that we also have plans, but it does no good. Her husband did us a favor and we owe them a great deal of gratitude so I hate to hurt her feelings but she is getting on my nerves.

MINNIE

Answer: Your relative's intentions are probably very good; as a stranger in a new neighborhood she wants to see that you get well established, make friends and enter into local activity. She is definitely overdoing the good neighbor policy and without causing hurt feelings it is almost impossible to curb her exuberance. You might develop some interest of your own so that you are unavailable for some of her plans. When she comes calling before breakfast, tell her tactfully you have work to do and must go about it.

When you know you have chronic visitors who are about to descend at any moment, it is a good idea to keep certain jobs just for that occasion. As soon as they pop in, for instance, tackle your housework. In this way you at least are making use of the time they spend nagging. Or you may take up a new job with which you need help. Furniture moving, curtain hanging or something of the kind. That will discourage all but the hardest callers.

Dear Miss Dix: We are planning a shower for a girl who is marry-

World Greet New Year With Prayer, Parties

By The Associated Press

There were toasts and prayers and cannonades for infant 1932 to day as the New Year brought the promise of the future to a world troubled by its past.

Peoples of nearly all nations, on both sides of the Iron Curtain, greeted the New Year at cheery midnight parties or quiet church services.

In Korea, where 1932 inherits 1931's major headache, the New Year was ushered in with a rocking Allied artillery barrage across the entire front. Meanwhile, French teams agreed to drag their negotiations into the New Year.

While the guns were booming in the world's current war, New York City's Times Square had one of its biggest celebrations since World War II dimmed the early 1940s.

Police estimated almost one million persons were in Times Square when midnight signalled the New Year. The figure was 500,000 greater than last year's.

A bedlam of noise, augmented by train whistles, greeted the New Year in Philadelphia. But a big part of the Quaker City's celebration was to come today in the annual parade of thousands of Miners.

Washington also had big crowds, as a special order permitted the capital's nightclubs and restaurants to remain open an extra two hours.

But in Boston, police said 1932 had a comparatively calm reception with only an estimated 75,000 "kids" tooting horns in the streets at midnight. Most Bostonians celebrated in night clubs or at home parties.

There were two New Year's Eve parties at West Point without any official announcement that 19 military academy cadets were reported to be good, a money shower is not a proper or gracious form of party.

Most of the friends you would invite will give money as a wedding present. Father give the shower in the regular manner, restricting the gifts to small items, or drop the whole idea.

Across the United States, the big holiday events today were the annual football "bowl" games.

Moscow also had its revels. The Russians made the holiday count for both New Year's and a sort of Christmas. "Grandfather Frost" passed out toys to children on a 10-day recess from school.

Berlin celebrated all night in both the East and West sections, but the champagne flowed most abundantly on the West. The Russian sector boasted the holiday chiefly in beer, champagne and vodka.

London was greeted by the notoriously rowdy Chelsea Art Ball, attended by some 6,000.

Sea Hampers Efforts to Reach Ship

London, Jan. 1 (AP) — Radio amateurs in Britain tried in vain today for a signal from sea Captain Kurt Carlson, drifting alone with the damaged freighter Flying Enterprise.

The inimitable skipper, who refused to give up his ship, spent his third night aboard the heavily listing freighter 300 miles out in the stormy Atlantic. The radio with which he had tapped out messages of love to his family at Woodbridge, N. J., went silent.

Salvage experts said the captain, who is an experienced mariner, may be trying a different wave length to communicate with the U. S. military transport Gen. A. W. Greeley.

The Gen. Greeley is standing by the Flying Enterprise, which was damaged in a fierce gale three days ago and is reported with a 60-degree list.

Fifty passengers and crewmen were taken off the Flying Enterprise by rescue ships that rushed to her help. Thirty-three of the survivors are aboard the Gen. Greeley.

Salvage experts said if nobody remained aboard the Flying Enterprise she would be classed as a derelict and anyone taking her in tow could claim her as a prize.

Gale conditions in the Atlantic were moderating, and salvage men gave the Flying Enterprise a sporting chance. But there was no hope that a tug being sent out could reach her before Wednesday.

One survivor from the Flying Enterprise — George Miterko of Cleveland, Ohio — landed in Liverpool, and said of Carlson: "He's wonderful. He preferred to stay with his ship to the end. Please, God, protect our skipper."

Miterko was rescued by the cargo ship Arlon two hours after he leaped into the churning seas off the tip of Ireland. He was taken to the northern hospital in Liverpool where his condition was described as "fair and comfortable."

Tallulah Goes on Despite Threat

New York, Dec. 31 (AP) — Tallulah Bankhead went on the air last night without incident after someone threatened to bomb the Center Theater if she appeared.

The threat caused police to search and watch the theater for 24 hours.

Miss Bankhead, star of the National Broadcasting Company's weekly "Big Show," was involved in a just-concluded court case in which her former maid, Mrs. Evelyn Cronin, was convicted of raising the actress' checks.

State Business Man Succumbs

Presidents, Dec. 31 (AP) — Ray E. Salter, well known Arkansas business man and auctioneer, died at a hospital here Saturday night. He was 66.

Operator of the Sallee Hickory Handle Co., said to be one of the largest in the Southwest, Salter owned a large Aberdeen-Angus cattle farm near here.

He was past president of the Arkansas Aberdeen-Angus Association, and past president of the National Hickory Handle Association.

Fair Enough

Paris — General Charles De Gaulle, a great hero of the second war and the leader of a political party which has a large block of votes in Parliament, held a conference to discuss the other afternoon in an enormous ballroom in the Hotel de Ville.

De Gaulle, who is now 67, was there, by my estimate, more than 200 in the room, which was furnished with enormous chandeliers, with a dais two steps up at one end where De Gaulle took his seat at a table with three milks at a gold velvet drape behind him. There were about half a dozen women. One, a plump lady with a yellow complexion and graying black hair, wore on her lapel three ribbons of decorations or campaign medals. Many of the men wore one or more ribbons, too.

A few minutes before the show began a very black lady came in and sat down in a small square which seemed to be reserved for De Gaulle's personal and political advisers. She sat a little apart from a group of men in the first row and, spotting her, cordially offered her hand and called to a couple of others in the front rows who greeted her warmly and insisted that she move toward to sit with them. I did not learn her significance, if any, but the absence of self-consciousness on either side of the color line made a passing impression on me.

There were a few Englishmen and Americans among the attendance. The general led off with a crack to the effect that this was not a packed press conference, which referred to charges that previous conferences of his had been packed with his fans. That would be in the tradition of the presidential press conferences in White House, which have usually been political claque, whatever the administration, but were absolutely shameless laces during the Roosevelt administration which the press had no decent right to lend itself to.

The worst example of that kind of thing that I ever attended was undoubtedly Wallace's conference in the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia when he became the candidate of the Communist movement in 1948. It was almost solidly Communist. This was the time he refused to answer whether he had written the goofy Gurn letters to Nicholas Roerich just after he had read us a lecture on our duty to seek truthful information.

Truman's press conferences have been getting out of hand lately and I seriously look for him to take a swing at some reporter one of these days and earnestly hope that in that case the reporter will knock him on his pants. It would jog him and us to our senses and dramatize the fact that Roosevelt and Truman plainly regarded themselves as kings.

The whole crowd stood up when De Gaulle entered, though he holds no office deserving of respect. Half a dozen photographers flattered about the same as ours do, their little fireflies, and it seemed to me that most general's pores began to open as he watched them.

I have nothing against De Gaulle and I understand he hated Roosevelt, which would be something in his favor, but, as I studied his face, I couldn't rid my mind of a mischievous thought that any position caricatured would have an easy time depicting General De Gaulle as a pig. He has a sharply receding forehead enormous ears and that long nose that you have seen in the pictures and a comparatively little mouth, but the

New York, Jan. 2 (AP) — Getting a head start on the Olympic year, the U. S. bobsled team already has dropped a few alternates and the ski team has announced that a curling team is in order unless more money is forthcoming. You will hear more of the same thing right up until the Olympics next August. Meanwhile the bobsled folks must be having a good laugh out of it all. Remember the bobsled team that won the gold medal at the Annapolis Amateur Hockey Association had authority to send a team to the 1948 Olympics? Well, they finally settled that with the AHA getting the recognition it wanted and equal representation on the Olympic hockey committee. The 1952 team has been chosen and now the AHA folks can sit back and wait for the Olympic officials to come up with the money for transportation. If there's difficulty, which seems likely, nobody will be left behind because the "pros" — as the AHA folks call them — can always figure out a way to finance such a tour. They're just not doing it, until asked. P. S. — It might be a good thing if somebody figured out a reliable four-year plan for financing all Olympic trips instead of depending on last-minute contributions.

Don Backsdale, who had his troubles making the jump from AAU to professional basketball: "The Phillips Oilers wouldn't be very much better than a last place club in the NBA. In 1948 they were strong and would have been tough among the pros, but this year they aren't that good."

Bill Bevens, the ex-Yankee pitcher, gives Wayne Anderson, a sportswriter Tom Meany credit for his comeback that earned him another big league trial with Cincinnati Anderson, the Reds' trainer, worked over Bevens' arm for two years and then tipped off boss Gabe Paul that Bill was in condition. Meany gave him "something to work for" by traveling from New York to Salem, Ore., to write a story on Bevens. — Syracuse U. is expanding its television sports coverage this winter to include swimming along with wrestling and gymnastics. — Racing folks in Florida already are getting slammed up about the second "Horsemen's Open" tournament, to be held at Miami Springs in February. Probably will have straight, place and show prizes.

Chicago, Jan. 2 (AP) — Maynard G. Fessenden, one of the nation's most popular figures in organizational golf died yesterday after a lingering illness.

Fessenden, who would have been 70 years old on Jan. 17, won the Golf Writers' Association award in 1947 for the person making the most outstanding contribution to golf that year.

He was a past president of the Chicago District and Western Golf Associations and had served on the advisory board of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

As chairman of the PGA advisory board, Fessenden helped coordinate relations between tournament sponsors and players. He also was a driving force behind the development of the WGAS Evans Scholars Fund to further the education of caddies.

Funeral services will be in Chicago Friday.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

"I REMEMBER NOW," Paul told Virginia as he recalled how Barth had stood shirtless debating whether to go down and speak to the church janitor dressed like that.

"You should. The simply delicious way he threw back his shoulders like a man who has finally made a great decision, and then strode down that driveway. It was so—so human. We simply loved it."

"Yes. Sure, I remember. He came back up with the bearing of a general who had conquered a continent."

"But he never saw what we saw. And that was the way the shade of the Peaches kitchen window moved. I don't know whether Minnie ever said anything, but she did. I know what it would be. 'Those Moores! They've got our minister running around half-naked, too.' And she smiled, but faintly."

He humbled to his feet, shouting protests at her.

"Thanks," said Virginia quietly, when he had subsided. "I feel better, too. But that's what I mean when I say I think we're hurting the people we care most about."

He was silent a moment. Then, "And you're going to church next square it all?"

Virginia shook her head. "No. Just that, no. Somehow I don't."

Joe gave Edna her ticket and then let someone push between him and her at the entrance door. He always did this. Just as he always led the way, as if they weren't together, up to the chaquet balcony seats where none of his friends would ever be but where he said he liked to sit because he could smoke there; and just as he always said, when the show was over, "Excuse me a minute. I'll meet you outside." He did not want to be seen with her. It was as plain as the nose on his face. But Edna accepted the arrangement, in spite of its insult to her pride, because if she made any complaint he might not take her at all. He might not take her anywhere. He might stop seeing her altogether. Joe was a tough customer. He would laugh and carry on with her and think she was cute and all that, but he wasn't going to get caught. He could say to her, as easy as not, "Look, baby, it's this way or not at all. See?" And then where would she be?

'Ike' Unable to See Young Backer

Supreme Allied Headquarters, in Europe, Jan. 2 (AP) — Eleven-year-old Stephen West of Dallas, Tex., visited General Eisenhower's headquarters today but failed to get an appointment with his idol, the general.

Young West, and his mother, Mrs. E. A. Adams, drove to headquarters with a newspaper photograph.

They were told the general was tied up with other appointments for the day. An aide escorted them around for a look at the place.

Stephen got a visit to Paris as a Christmas present when he expressed a wish to visit Eisenhower and find out if the general would be a candidate for President. He arrived by air last weekend wearing "I Like Ike" campaign buttons.
